Chicago.—States attorneys prepared Tuesday to submit to the grand jury the confessions of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, millionaires' sons and university students, admitted kidnapers and slayers of 13-year-old Robert Franks, while investigators sought any connection with the unsolved killing of Freeman Louis Tracy, also a student, and a mutilation attack last fall on Charles Ream, taxi cab chauffeur.

Ream has declared the youths held in the county jail in custody of the Cook county sheriff by court order are the assailants who kidnaped him in an automobile, drugged and threw him out of the machine after a mutilation operation. Taken to the states attorney's office by newspapermen, Ream shouted "It's them, it's them," and fainting when he saw the boys. Later he was positive in his identification.

The body of Tracy, a bullet through the head, was found five days before the attack on Ream.

SPEND NIGHT IN JAIL
The youthful slayers, who claimed they killed the Franks boy through a spirit of adventure and for the $10,000 ransom they demanded of his father, Jacob Franks, spent Monday night in the county jail that will house them until they are freed, removed to the penitentiary or asylum or executed. Their removal from the custody of the states attorney who has held them since they were first questioned last week, came at the end of the opening skirmish of a legal battle with millions for the defense, which had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus. Hearing on the writ was continued on June 6.

States Attorney Robert E. Crowe declared he would have both indicted by Tuesday night and arrested on the multimillion. He said he expects to ask for indictments for murder and kidnapping for ransom, each a capital crime.

Monday night Leopold, whose investigations in ornithology were praised by authorities, and Loeb, a university graduate at 18, took their places in line with vagrants and drug addicts in the jail receiving line, were bathed and examined and registered. They were assigned to separate cells and later will be given permanent locations, each with a cell mate, according to Warden Westbrook. They registered their occupation as students. Leopold refused to answer questions by jail officials saying he did so by advice of counsel.

LETTER COMPLETES NET
Finding of a letter written to Jacob Franks by the boys in a Michigan Central railroad car in New York has completed the collection of evidence made by the state, according to Mr. Crowe, with the exception of a portable typewriter on which the ransom demand was written. Divers are searching a park lagoon into which the typewriter was hurled.

The letter found in the railroad car was part of the elaborate system of directions to Mr. Franks for the delivery of the $10,000 ransom. Mr. Crowe said, Mr. Franks was first instructed by letter to prepare the money, then directed by telephone to board the train and car in which the letter was placed, and finally to throw the money from a window.

The plan miscarried when Mr. Franks forgot the address of the drug store and when the body of a boy, found in a culvert earlier in the day, was identified as his missing son.

Constitutional Amendment Regulating Work of Children Passes Senate

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The child labor amendment to the constitution was before the states Tuesday for final action.

The proposal which would empower the federal government to limit, regulate or prohibit the labor of children under 18 years of age, already adopted by the house, was approved Monday night by the senate, 61 to 23, and now awaits ratification by three-fourths of the states to become part of the nation's fundamental law. Although President Coolidge has expressed himself in favor of the amendment his approval of the resolution is not required.

A dozen efforts to modify the resolution during the senate debate, in which almost every member present participated, were voted down, and it was adopted as it came from the house with 40 Republicans, 19 Democrats and two Farmer-Labor ballots supporting it, and 19 Democratic and 6 Republican votes in opposition.

Plans of Senate Leaders Encountered Obstacle in Power Problem

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The plans of senate leaders to push through a concurrent resolution for adjournment of congress next Saturday night encountered another obstacle Tuesday in a concerted attack by senators interested in final disposition of the Muscle Shoals problem at this session.

While on both sides of the chamber the party managers continued in favor of the announced adjournment program, the drive by supporters of the Ford Muscle Shoals proposal began to cause some anxiety. Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, sought unsuccessfully to obtain unanimous consent to make the pending Muscle Shoals bill the unfinished business of the senate. He then served notice that at the earliest opportunity he would move formally for consideration of the bill.

Destroyers Line Up Across China Sea in Preparation for Flight

By Associated Press
Kagoshima, Japan.—The American aviators flying around the world spent Tuesday in rest and tuning up their planes after the strenuous flight from Kuchimoto here Monday. They hope to hop off for the flight to Shanghai Wednesday. On this jump of about 500 miles straight across the China sea they will have the aid of a number of American destroyers. If needed, the destroyers have been stationed in line across the sea at intervals of about sixty miles.

Most of the Americans' attention was given to the flag plane, the "Chicago," which experienced engine trouble Monday on the flight from Kuchimoto. Because of this trouble, the aviator, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, who is the acting commander of the flight was forced to make an emergency descent near here but he and his mechanic were able to get the motor into working shape again and continued to this point.

Editor of The Nation Discusses Situation with Badger Senator
REFORM PROGRAM NEEDED
LaFollette Gives Up Hope of Improvement from Within, Friend Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Robert M. LaFollette, senior senator from Wisconsin, has decided definitely to make the race for the presidency as an independent irrespective of whether William G. McAdoo is named on the Democratic ticket or Calvin Coolidge on the Republican ticket, for he has given up hope of "boring from within" the two old line parties to secure the enactment of a Progressive program.

Mr. LaFollette believes congress should not adjourn now but should stay in session all summer, if necessary, to accomplish agricultural relief and other needed reforms and is urging his followers in the senate and house to block adjournment so far as is possible and to make their record clear on this point.

CONFERS WITH FRIEND
These are the opinions expressed by Oswald Garrison Villard of New York city, editor of "The Nation," the liberal weekly, after a conference with Senator LaFollette Monday. Mr. Villard goes back to New York to complete the organization of a committee to be affiliated with the conference for progressive political action which is to meet in Cleveland on July 4 for the purpose of nominating Senator LaFollette for the presidency.

"The friends of Mr. LaFollette," said Mr. Villard, "are convinced that in taking the stand that he does he is far less 'detached' by any effect it may have upon his own personal fortunes than by his desire to give the voters of the United States an alternative to voting for either of the old parties which we deem hopelessly corrupt. We feel that the great need of the country today is a progressive political party with a clear cut program of reform much along the lines of those urged by Woodrow Wilson in his first campaign for the presidency, when he called for radical reform and declared that the president of the United States therefore had to go hat in hand to Wall-street or to the people."

CANT "BUCK SYSTEM"
"I believe that Mr. LaFollette finds himself in the same position as Senator Norris of Nebraska who, it will be remembered, did not wish to run again for the senate because after 25 years of experience in Washington, he had come to the conclusion that it was hopeless to 'buck the system' as it functions in Washington. Mr. LaFollette has tried for more than 30 years to reform his party from within. He has never bolted the Republican party and did not leave it in 1912 when Roosevelt cut loose. It is therefore a tremendous wrench for him to be what he has said that he will do if the two national conventions do not afford him the ground for believing that they mean to purge themselves in dead earnest. Since there is no likelihood whatever of the conventions doing this, I can not escape the belief that he will announce his candidacy as soon as the conference for progressive political action has met."

Mr. Villard was asked if he knew who would be considered for the vice presidency on the LaFollette ticket and he said probably an eastern labor man, but the matter is being very seriously debated because of the possibility remote though it may be, that as soon as the conference for progressive political action has met, it is impossible to forecast how many states LaFollette will carry but he is surprised at the number of politicians and journalists who say to him that the Wisconsin senator will capture at least nine or ten states.

Because of the close friendship between Mr. Villard and Senator LaFollette, the foregoing views may be considered significant.

The question of President Millerand's tenure of office however, remains as confused as before, the only thing which appears certain being that he will resist to the end all efforts to force him out. Doubt is expressed in some quarters whether the radicals are willing to go so far as to create a precedent whereby the president would have to resign whenever the party he favored was beaten in the elections.

President Signs Revenue Measure But Intends to Call for Revision
GIVES TEMPORARY RELIEF
Immediate Cut of 25 Per Cent Is Granted on 1923 Income Levies

Washington, D. C.—A new federal tax law is on the statute books Tuesday but it will have to weather a determined fight by the administration to obtain a law more to its liking at the next session of congress to remain there.

President Coolidge served notice in a statement Tuesday coincident with his signature of the tax reduction bill that he would bend all of his energies to obtain passage at the next session of a bill "less political" and more economic.

Despite its "obvious defects," the president said in his statement he had signed the bill as serving the best interests of the country because of "its advantages as a temporary relief and temporary adjustment of business conditions," adding that "a correction of its defects may be left to the next session of congress."

The bill which the president declared represents merely "tax reduction," not "tax reform," cuts federal revenues by an amount estimated at $861,000,000 for the next fiscal year, and decreases tax rates generally to the lowest levels since 1913.

Although the taxpayer's pocket book will not feel the actual benefit of the reduction in income taxes applicable to incomes of this year until he pays them in 1925, he is granted the immediate relief of a 25 per cent decrease in income taxes for the current year now due. The repeal of many excise taxes such as those on telegraph and telephone messages, soft drinks, candy and theatre admissions of 50 cents or less, also will be felt within 30 days.

Preparation for administration of the act went forward Tuesday in the treasury and a formal estimate of $200,000,000 for refunding the 25 per cent retroactive reduction to those who paid their 1923 income taxes in full on March 15 was before Director Lord of the budget. These refunds for the reduction of 40 per cent of the estate tax, the publicity features and the action of congress in reducing salaries recommended for members of the their terms of office. He also indicated that he might call a conference prior to the next session of congress to work out a scheme for division of taxes between the federal and state governments.

Washington, D. C.—A bill designed to afford relief to settlers on reclamation projects and to provide sweeping changes in the reclamation laws was reported Tuesday by the house irrigation committee. The measure is in line with the recommendations of Secretary Work's fact finding commission on reclamation which has been approved by President Coolidge. The vote was 12 to 1.

House action on the bill will be sought before adjournment. Chairman Smith, being instructed to use every effort to call it up under the suspension of the rules which would shut off amendments, limit debate to 40 minutes and require a two-thirds vote for passage.

STEVENS POINT BUS MOVES OUT OF STATE

The Appleton-Stevens Point bus line has been discontinued, and the proprietors, The Valley Transportation company, will move with their "White Seal" bus to operate a line between Evansville, Ind., and Louisville, Ky. The bus in operation will be driven over to the Indiana city and a second one will be ordered. "Poor roads in Portage co.," said C. O. Sparhawk, one of the owners, "was primarily our reason for not attempting to continue our line to Appleton. We found that the driving was easy after we passed the Portage-co line, but within the county we found it nearly impossible to operate."

The line passed through Portage, Waupaca and Outagamie cos. The Indiana line, it is said, is over better roads and promises to be more profitable.

1,000 KNIGHTS OF GRIP WILL MARCH IN PARADE FRIDAY

City Is Decorating for U. C. T. State Convention This Week

Appleton streets and business places are being decorated for the state convention of the United Commercial Travelers which opens here on Thursday and continues until Saturday. Frank Nolte, Oshkosh, grand counselor of the Wisconsin jurisdiction, is expected here in a day or two to take charge of convention arrangements.

Most of Thursday will be devoted to registering the 1,500 or more delegates expected at the state meeting. First business sessions will be held late on Thursday.

PARADE IS FEATURE

One of the outstanding features of the convention will be the parade at 4:15 Friday afternoon in which 1,000 knights of the grip are expected to participate. All of the 21 councils in Wisconsin will have representatives in the parade, some of them sending their bands. The local council and city officials will make up one section. Ladies auxiliaries also will march in the procession.

The parade route is west on College-ave from Union-st to Cherry-st and then counter-march to Odd Fellows hall where convention sessions are to be held.

Final preparations for the state meeting are being made by local committees which have charge of arrangements. Women are planning a series of entertainments for wives of travelers at the convention and also are arranging for the meeting at which a state woman's auxiliary will be formed.

AUTOMOBILE GETS WORST OF BUMP WITH BICYCLE

In a collision between an automobile and a bicycle on Appleton-st Monday noon, the usual order was reversed and the automobile was the only vehicle damaged. The accident occurred at 12:20 while F. N. Armistage, a traveling salesman, was driving south on Appleton-st near College-ave. The bicycle was ridden by Raymond Renier, 550 Kernan-ave. As he ran into the running board of the automobile, the fender was bent.

LARGE CROWD SEES PROGRAM AT SCHOOL

Fourth Ward Children at Sacred Heart School Receive Diplomas

Commencement exercises of Sacred Heart school, held in the school auditorium Sunday night, were attended by immense crowd of parents and friends of the graduates. The program and play, "The Kingdom Come," was given in the afternoon for those who were unable to attend in the evening.

"Dot Leddie German Band," a minilo number was much appreciated by the audience, which demanded an encore. Other numbers that were especially approved included "Sunflowers," a costume number by boys of the third and fourth grade, numbers by the orchestra and the play. All members of the cast did fine work.

The audience was kept in suspense during a number by the first and second grade girls entitled "What is in the Basket." When the basket was opened out stepped little Mildred Boehnlein.

The Rev. F. L. Ruessman, pastor of Sacred Heart church presented diplomas to the graduates, advising them to be industrious and to continue their efforts.

ENGRAVING PLANT ADDITION WILL BE BUILT BY TENANT

Waterworks Commission Awards Contract for Work to Engraving Company

The profit produced by the Appleton waterworks during the month of April amounted to $1,186.62, according to the accountant's financial report for that month, submitted to the Appleton water commission. Bills in the sum of $18,326.54 and a payroll of $1,427.41 were allowed by the commission at its semi-monthly meeting Monday afternoon.

Bids for erection of an addition to the former pumping station now occupied by the Appleton Engraving company were opened. The lowest bid submitted was that of the Appleton Engraving company itself. It amounted to $3,000, which is all that the water commission was authorized to spend. The work on the addition will cost somewhat more than the $3,000, but the difference in the cost will be borne by the engraving company, which will engage construction men for the job. The next lowest bid submitted was $3,075, but did not include plumbing, heating and wiring.

Fred R. Morris, assistant secretary, was instructed to advertise for bids for furnishing the water department with additional pipe to be used in installing the additional water mains authorized by the common council. The monthly report of A. J. Hall, plant superintendent and bacteriologist, was accepted.

BUILDING PERMITS

Cost estimates amounting to $1,740 were included in four building permits issued on Monday by the city building inspector. Total construction for the season now amounts to $1,186,510.

Following are the new permits: Ferdinand Dorn, 1281 College-ave, garage; Joseph Kappel, 391 Eldorado-st, basement and chimney; George Lampert, 555 Locust-st, alterations and building of second story; John Hermes, 588, Jackson-st, addition, stairway and porch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hammer of Belvidere, Ill., returned to their home Monday after visiting friends and relatives in Appleton for a week.

YOUNG MAN READS FIRST MASS HERE

Father Aegidius who before his ordination as a priest in the Capuchin order was Mathias Witmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Witmer, 845 State-st, sang his first mass at St. Joseph church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The church was filled with friends of the young man and other members of the parish.

Father Basilus Gummerman, pastor of St. Joseph church, was the assistant at the mass. Father Ulrich was the deacon, Father Traens, the sub-deacon and Father Benedict gave the sermon. A reception was held for the young man at St. Joseph hall on Sunday afternoon at which J. B. Langenberg gave the address for the parish. Carl Fiedler and Robert Rechner gave readings.

Father Aegidius will remain in Appleton for a week before returning to St. Anthony's monastery at Marathon where he was ordained. He will be assigned to one of the Capuchin monasteries in this vicinity.

JAPAN PROTESTS

As was to be expected Japan has
lodged with the state department a protest against the exclusion act passed by congress and signed by the president.
The protest is couched in dignified and respectful terms, and is a forceful statement of Japan's position. The government of Tokio admits the right of congress to enact whatever legislation it sees
fit governing immigration.

What the Japanese government objects to is that a needless and humiliating indignity has been offered the Japanese nation. No matter what our Pacific coast extremists and our sentimental jingoes may think, in the highly emotional state to which they have been lifted
in carrying through the exclusion provision, a deep offense has been given to the pride of Japan. In the judgment
of President Coolidge and Secretary
Hughes this offense is inexcusable and unnecessary. It is their contention, and in this they are in agreement with the Japanese, that the same results could have been achieved through diplomatic channels in a form calculated to satisfy the feelings of Japan and to spare her the slap
in the face that congress has administered.

Whether we like to think so or not,
Japan has reached an enviable and influential place among the great nations of the world. She has received much of the ambition to gain this place through contact with American institutions and
through commercial relations with our people. She has attained this position
through her own efforts, industry and cleverness. A nation does not achieve power and eminence without cultivating
a strong national spirit and a deep sense of pride. These attributes properly belong to Japan. We have no right to question them, for they are exactly the qualities that have distinguished us from the days of our independence and they properly
belong to any self-respecting nation.

It is our sovereign right to give offense to any nation if we so desire. It is our privilege to wound the sensibilities of another power if we are so inclined. The question raised by such a course is whether it is justified and whether we are using good judgment. This is the question in our treatment of Japan. If our national interests were irretrievably at stake and could be protected in no other
way than by the action congress has taken, then we should have to so act and
take the consequences of Japanese resentment and disfavor. Neither the president nor his secretary of state believes this to be the case. They do not believe the action was warranted or justified.
Congress has deeply outraged the national sentiments of Japan, and we can expect nothing else than ill will as the result. This is the net accomplishment of congressional exclusion. The exclusion
itself could have been obtained by negotiation. After three-quarters of a century
of friendly relations, and mutual acceptance of the open door, it is unfortunate
to say the least that we have taken a step
that threatens to cause a permanent misunderstanding, the consequences of which may become exceedingly grave and may eventually lead to war.

OUR LEAGUE HATERS

Every time there is an excuse in the United States senate to malign the League
of Nations it is taken advantage of. Every time Mr. Lodge and his fellow-isola-tionists can create an opportunity to speak disrespectfully of the League and its work they do so. Every proposal for American cooperation in Europe of whatever character is denounced or opposed

on some mythical contention that the United States will be contaminated by the League of Nations. The utmost contempt is held for this organization, and those who are obsessed with a desire to discredit it do not hesitate to voice their
contempt and derision on every occasion.

What kind of a spirit is back of this studied denunciation and abuse? The League of Nations is composed of forty-eight independent nations. It comprises all the nations of the world within this category excepting Russia, Turkey, Germany and the United States. It includes such nations as Great Britain, France,
Belgium, Norway, Sweden, Japan, China
and the sovereign states of South America. It is organized and functioning for the promotion of peace and good understanding. It is doing a great deal to promote both.

If forty-eight nations of the world
choose to organize for these purposes, by
what right does the United States ridicule and berate what they have done? Is it not a legitimate organization and a lawful undertaking? Shall any nation deny to them the privilege they have asserted of associating themselves together
to prevent war and advance peace? They are not molesting the United States, they are not exerting pressure of any kind
upon it one way or the other, they are not attempting to interfere with its sovereignty or its freedom of action.

Is it not our duty to accord these forty-eight nations the right to so organize
and to permit them to go their way unmolested and without jeering, hooting or missile throwing? Would it not become
us as an enlightened and christian nation rather to give them our moral support
and our best wishes, and to say to them in effect that we wish them success in what they have set out to do? These questions, when specifically put to such League baiters as Senator Lodge and his associates, afford their own answers.

THE FRANKS CASE

The Franks "kidnapping" mystery
has been solved. It was not a kidnapping at all. It was pure, unadulterated murder, and nothing else. The murder
was one of the most diabolical on record, having been conceived months ago
and carried out in its minutest details
with fiendish deliberation. The Franks
boy was the accidental victim of murder
lust.

The three families concerned in this
astounding triangle are multi-millionaires. The murderers have made a clean,
complete confession. It is immaterial
which one struck the initial blow or which stuffed the gag in the victim's mouth that caused death. Both were bent upon killing him and both are equally guilty.
The millions of the defendants' families
are being marshalled to save them from the gallows. A criminal lawyer of national reputation has been engaged to head the defense. The country knows what will follow.

Everything within the resource of
money, skill and ingenuity will be employed to frustrate justice. It will be a bold and open attempt to purchase the freedom of these young murderers.
Freak psycho-analysis will run riot to prove the defendants mentally irresponsible. It will be so subtle and mysterious as to be comical. Psychiatrists willing to testify to the correctness of any crazy
theory the defense chooses to set up will be paid enormous fees. All the tomfoolery of aleinists that made a travesty of justice in the Thaw case will be repeated.
The technical discussions of these august
life-savers will be beyond lay comprehension. The artifices they use, and they will be artifices pure and simple, will run the
whole gamut of deceit and of consummate conceit.

If the slayers of the Franks boy get off with anything less than death on the scaffold it will be another case where
money has trampled justice in the dust.
If these precocious, gilt-edged, crime-creations of modernism escape death, then
no murderer henceforth should suffer the extreme penalty. We might as well say
to the world that murder is a recognized
pastime in the United States and reduce
the penalty to a few years imprisonment,
or fine, or both. We might as well admit that the crime wave we are weltering in
is wholesome and natural, that it is a necessary and normal outlet to our over-
wrought nerves, and accord it the same
standing as jazz and booze.

BETTER COUGH THAN CHOCOLATE

Everybody remembers the charade: Brothers and sisters have I none, but this man's father is my father's son. The brothers and sisters merely help to mislead the mind, very much as the seven vines, cats,
sacks and kits do in the riddle of the man going to St. Ives. Credulous folk who are at all curious will notice printed somewhere on their favorite cough
cure one or two lines: "Guaranteed under the Food and Drug Act, June 30, 1906." The word "guaranteed" is the misleading part of it, for there are a lot of simple people who have a vague notion that
this legend on the label means that the medicine is really a good remedy for something or other, or that it contains no injurious ingredients. The other
joker often printed on cough medicine packages is something like this: "Contains no laudanum, cocaine, chloroform or morphine."

Certain medicines are beneficial in the sense that they alleviate, perhaps by loosening tightness and
so making cough and expectoration easier, with out
causing any effects at the same time which may be detrimental, such as destroying the appetite or interfering with digestion or dulling general sensation.
For the majority of coughs which are popularly
treated by the patients themselves or by members
of their families, I am convinced that no treatment
at all would be better than the usual early resort
to remedies which contain opiates, narcotics or nerve sedatives of one kind or another. To dull the sensation which prompts coughing, in the earlier
stage of any throat, bronchial or lung condition in which cough and expectoration is natural, is the most unwise policy one can pursue. And that is so
even though the medicine contains "no laudanum,
cocaine, chloroform or morphine"—for there are plenty of other narcotics used in such concoctions.

In certain cases it is not only justifiable but necessary and beneficial to check coughing by means of an opiate or narcotic—but in any case this is a serious question which should be left to the judgment of the physician. For the layman to indulge in medicine which lessens coughing is a risky gamble with disease at any stage of a cough. It is my firm conviction that a great many minor illnesses are converted into serious or fatal illnesses
by just this very popular practice.
Cough, if it is anything medicine can influence at all, is usually a good thing for what ails you. Help
it along, don't try to make yourself forget it. I mean to fill up on breakfast and gravy presently,
and when my courage is equal to it, publish again
my complete formula and directions for use of my famous fool proof cough medicine—but as to how catch the printers when they're right, so as to have
a fifty fifty chance of printing the formula I write.
Some people seem to think it harms the lungs or something. It doesn't. On the contrary it tends to prevent congestion of the lungs and with the exception
of tuberculosis and pleurisy, it is better in any case
to cough than to choke.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lacquer Fumes

What effect lacquer fumes have on a person
working in it all day? (C. B.)
Answer—Amyl acetate, benzene, benzol, lead, wood alcohol, turpentine, are volatile or poisons which lacquer makers are exposed to. Of these perhaps benzol is the most dangerous—it is a solvent, volatile, and causes headaches, vertigo, muscular tre-
mors, scarlet lips, spots like black and blue spots
under the skin, cough, and in some cases fatal degeneration of the heart, kidneys and liver. Special ventilation is the best protection of the worker from
this risk.

Baby Shoes
My baby is 18 months old and weighs 22½ pounds.
Is it necessary that she wear high shoes this summer, to support her ankles or are the strap slippers satisfactory? (Miss M. T. R.)

Answer—A baby's ankles require no support unless there is something the matter, and then only
such supports as the doctor deems necessary should be used. Until a baby begins to walk no shoes should become necessary, the less shoe around the ankle
the better.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A traveling salesman told us that
in Chicago last week they were wear-

Hang on to your overcoats, friends,
for you may need them this year at Waverly Beach. For swimming,
I understand.

So this is June! Well, where are the roses? Also the brides?

The municipal court met with a surprise Monday. This surprise was a new species of speeder. The individual seemed to be suffering with a disposition to truthfulness. He ad-

his wife wasn't dying either. Just wanted to make up time.

The Appleton Volkfreund acknowl-
edges its absent-mindedness in mak-

seemed like April 30 anyhow.

Believe It Or Not

We really wouldn't believe this one

except for the fact that it was told us by an advertising salesman. We are not enough of a nature student

to explain the geological conditions

of the region near Mountain, but at any rate, a group of Appleton fisher-

men who were camping in a valley,

ravine or something, in that region,

were terrified one night by what sounded like the roar of a lion. Investigation proved that it was only a freak of remarkable acoustics. The noise consisted of the snores of a

sleeping companion reverberating

through the rocky glen.

If June is here, can spring be far behind? Not yet. It is still about three weeks ahead.

ROLLO.

Birthday Like Fete Days Of French People

In France and other continental
countries it is the custom to honor
one's friends on the fete day of the saint in whose honor they were named.
In this country, even among persons
to whom there would be a special religious significance to the fete day of the patron saint, the custom is for
social purposes to honor the birthday
instead. In France mothers give presents to their children on their fete
day; here it is on one's birthday that
one is especially regaled with presents
and congratulations.

In business and public life a man's
birthday—or a woman's, either—is always a suitable occasion for the sending of congratulatory letters or telegrams. Especially if the person is advanced in years congratulations of this sort are appropriate. Not long ago
when a prominent business man and
public benefactor reached his eighti-
eth birthday telegrams came to him
from all over the country, from those who knew him personally and those who did not know him, but who admired the work that he had done. One of these telegrams written by a man
no less well known than the octogenarian began with these words: "Congratulations that you are 80 years
young," and ended with: "Accept my best wishes for many more years of service to your country."

Telegrams and letters are peculiarly suitable as birthday remembrances at
the present time instead of gifts of intrinsic value because they are in-
keeping with thrift that we are all enjoined to exercise. And they are at all times suitable for older persons or
for those whose financial position
leaves them with few personal wishes unsatisfied. There are a hundred things you can think of to give the
young girl or boy just entering in life,
but to the old man or woman there
are few such things and a letter of heartly congratulations has a far deeper appeal than anything else could have.

Not every one knows that every letter or telegram of congratulation
should be acknowledged within 48
hours. The most complimentary way
to answer the telegram of congratula-tion is by a telegram, but a well-worded
letter may be made to carry the message of appreciation.

Q. Was the Mr. Mills who made the famous statue of Jackson on horseback an Indian? E. L. M.

A. Clark Mills was not an Indian.

He was an American sculptor born

in Onondaga County, New York, December 1, 1815. He died January 12,

1883. In 1848 he was on the eve of leaving for Europe to study the art of

sculpture, he received a commission

eral Jackson. According to the story, Mills had never even seen an equestrian statue. He, however, set to work,
designed his model and then found it necessary to learn the art of bronze
casting, inasmuch as there was no
one in the country to mould his fig-

Jackson by Mills is in Lafayette

Q. Will you be so kind as to tell me the history of the Chef Menteur?

B. N. G.

A. The fort known as Chef Men-

teur has figured fairly extensively in Louisiana history. In regard to the naming of the fort, the following legend is told: The Choctaws were conspicuous for their love of truth, but

one of the chiefs was known to pre-

varicate frequently. He was exiled
and settled on a nithmus projecting

into Lake Pontchartrain, which therefore was called "Chef Menteur,"

which is French for "Lying Chief."

Q. Is it proper to say "differ with"

or "differ from"? J. R.

A. Whether one says "differ with"

or "differ from" depends upon what

the speaker wishes to convey. For example, if two persons have a disagreement one says to the other, "I differ with you." If physical differences are referred to, one says, "She differs

from her sister in that she has brown

eyes and black hair."

Men Are Cast In 2 Dramatic Club Playlets

"Mr. Antonio" and "Mr. Sampson" with men as well as girls in the cast will be given at Appleton Women's club playhouse on Wednesday evening. The plays offer a marked contrast and the acting is especially good. Some of the most accomplished actresses of the dramatic workshop have been cast in the plays while the men became interested in dramatic productions through their work in the "Tale of the Fox".

The one act of "Mr. Antonio" which will be given will show the great character of Mr. Antonio in contrast to his surroundings in a cheap New York eating house. "Mr. Sampson" is a pleasant story of the love of two old maids for one bachelor and of his indecision concerning which one to marry. What happens is an interesting portrayal of human nature.

OPERATION ADVISED FRIEND SAID "DON'T DO IT!"

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois. — Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, "Don't do it! You go and take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation." So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman. It has helped me and a lot of my friends.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

If anyone had told me, old man, that the simple act of sitting married would throw me into such a whirlpool of problems, I would have laughed at him.

It seems to me that I have just gotten out of one mess when I am completely immersed in another. I know you will say that much for what I am getting was coming to me for my peccadilloes before marriage. Surely, these little side steps should have been paid for by this time. I have been married to Leslie nearly two years and things seem to be getting worse and worse. Of course, a great deal of it is because of my ungovernable temper.

All my life I have been used to dealing with people with a high hand. I think one of the things that has come down to me from my Puritan ancestor has been the centralized idea that everything I do is right, that my standards are the right standards at least the right standards for me. And I have never thought very much of what my actions might mean to the other fellow. Now, of course, I always have to be thinking of Leslie and Leslie's standards, Leslie's feelings and, being what I am, I seldom hit upon the right thing. I cannot seem to get into her orbit. Things which I think she will not mind at all almost break her heart and things that I think she is going to make a fuss over she does not say a word about.

No matter how much you think you understand women, Syd, you will never know them until you are married to one. Even then you will not know much about them as a whole, for I sincerely believe every woman is an absolutely individual specimen. Nothing that I learned from Paula Perier has helped me in any way with Leslie.

Just at present Leslie has become more intimate with Ruth Ellington than with any other woman of her acquaintance. Of course, I think it was because she felt sorry for Ruth in the first place. But whatever it might be that started the friendship, it has grown by leaps and bounds.

You know, of course, that Harry Ellington welched me out of about a hundred and fifty thousand dollars due me in some stock deals where he acted as my broker. He also nearly wrecked my whole business life because, if one of the principals in my company had found out that I was playing the market, it would have spelled "out" for me. Playing the stock market is one of their prohibited gambling games. Leslie, God bless her, went to her father and got enough money to make good my losses, which in real money were only about three thousand dollars. Harry having drawn out the money we had made by pyramiding and accompanied with it and another woman.

He also left a great many others in the same boat as I was. I have felt, however, that something I did not know made Harry Ellington leave his friends in the lurch. I could not think that any man I had known as well as he could do such a thing. I always thought his wife knew more about him than she would tell. Here comes my new secretary. I'll finish this letter tomorrow.

Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

Your "Krumbled Bran" used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple.

Yours truly,

Arlington H. Carman,

Palo Alto, N. Y.

Mr. Carman's experience has been duplicated in thousands of homes. Why does Kellogg's Bran succeed when drugs and pills fail? The answer is simple. Drugs have an unnatural effect upon the bowels. They irritate the intestines. The more they are used, the more one has to use. Finally, they have no effect at all.

Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary bran. Eat the tablespoonsfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Kaukauna RepresentativeMARRIED TEACHERS WILL BATTLE FOR
JOBS IN SCHOOLSLegal Fight Over New Teacher Contract Threatened by Mentors

Kaukauna — Mrs. Frances Borklund and Mrs. David J. Kitta, Nicolet grade school teachers, through their attorneys Martin and Martin of Green Bay, have declared their intention of returning to teach next fall under contracts submitted by the board of education before action was taken barring married teachers from positions in this city. At its regular meeting Monday evening in the new high school the board voted to secure the services of an attorney for an opinion and to defend its action.

The attorneys of Mrs. Borklund and Mrs. Kitta hold that the first contracts which were submitted by the board and signed by the two teachers without any restrictions or reservations were legal and that the agreement is binding regardless of the fact that the board had not signed them. The board contends that the contract is not complete until the signature of its representative are affixed. Consequently when the board decided to bar married women and to consider female teachers resigned who are married during their term of contract, the first contracts were thrown out and new ones including the marriage clause were presented to all city teachers.

DESPONDENCY IS BLAMED FOR DEATH
OF KAUKAUNA MANBachelor-Farmer Slays Himself
With Shotgun at His Home

Kaukauna — Despondency over ill health is believed to have caused Alfred Nelson, 43, to take his life Sunday morning at his home in town of Kaukauna about a mile north of McCarty's crossing. Nelson had visited Mayo brothers in Rochester and had just returned home from a month's confinement in the Green Bay hospital. He was apparently well and cheerful Sunday morning. While his two brothers were fishing Nelson stood in a hall in the second story of their home and shot himself just above the heart with a shotgun. The charge opened a large ugly hole in the man's chest but he did not die immediately.

Passersby were attracted to the house by the man's groans of agony. A Kaukauna doctor was summoned but Nelson passed away a few moments after the physician's arrival. Nelson is survived by three brothers, Edward and James, Kaukauna, and Henry, Bark River, Mich. The dead man and his brothers Edward and James lived together in their town of Kaukauna home.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the late home and at 2:30 from Brookway Methodist church of this city. The Rev. W. P. Hulén will be in charge. Burial will be in Kelso cemetery.

KAUKAUNA HOLDS
38TH GUN TOURNAMENT

Many Prizes Offered for Marksmanship at Shooting Tournament Sunday

Kaukauna — The thirty-eighth annual tournament of Kaukauna Gun club will be held next Sunday morning and afternoon on the gun club grounds, opposite the fifth lock. The handicap straw shoot will be open to all marksmen. A practice shoot will be held from 10 until 11 o'clock and the big event of the day will begin promptly at 11 o'clock.

In addition to money prizes, three trophies will be awarded in each of the three events. All makes of shells will be available on the grounds. Lunch will be served. The meet will be governed by rules of the American Trapshooters' association, of which the local club is a member.

A special prize of $2 will be awarded by the Kaukauna club to the person who hits 25 birds in succession and a prize of $5 will be awarded to one who hits 50 birds without a miss. In cases of ties in any of the events, the contestants will shoot until one leads.

Local business men who gave goods for trophies include Haas Hardware Co., City of Kaukauna Electrical and Water department, the Royal, Butler-Dietzler Hardware Co., H. T. Runte Co., G. W. Fargo and son, Peter Feiler, H. G. Brauer and William Van Lieshout.

William Smith, assistant coach at Lawrence college, was engaged to take Olin G. Dryer's place in the high school. Mr. Dryer has been promoted to succeed W. F. Waterpool. Mr. Smith will teach science and will coach athletic teams and will receive a salary of $2,000. Mr. Smith appeared before the board at its last meeting and asked to be allowed to accept a contract to play with the Green Bay Packers next fall. The contract would mean Mr. Smith's absence from school twice a week for two hours in the morning during the football season. Although he agreed to come here under those conditions for a smaller salary the board felt that as a teacher all his activity should be for the school and consented to pay Mr. Smith the $2,000 salary for full time. Smith has acted as referee for local high school football games and basketball games and for games of the Kaukauna Legion football team and is quite well known.

Another teacher was added to the high school faculty to take care of the increased attendance and Mr. Ludwig, who is now teaching at Freedom, was engaged at a salary of $1,700 to teach science and citizenship and history. Still another teacher must be chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Almeda Johnson, English teacher, who has accepted a position as public speaking and dramatic teacher in Marinette.

Standing committees on finance, grounds and buildings and teachers were created. H. T. Runte, president of the board, will appoint members on each by the next meeting.

LEGION AUXILIARY PICKS
STATE MEETING DELEGATES

Kaukauna — An interesting program was given at the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the American legion Monday evening in Legion hall. Three visitors from the Wrightstown auxiliary were present. Miss Molly Goldin gave the reading "Humoresque," with which she entered the district high school declamatory contest this spring. Violin and piano numbers were rendered by Misses Lillian and Esther Mau. The Misses Olive Jacobson and Laura Mau sang several vocal duets. Mesdames Forrest Bannink, George Brenzel, Lester J. Brenzel and E. J. Bollnske were hostesses. Mrs. Edward Haas and Mrs. Anton Rietz were chosen delegates to the state convention to be held August 14 and 15.

I couldn't lift anything my back was so weak. Every morning I was dizzy could hardly walk, but now I feel fine, hard everywhere."

MORE ALFALFA, FEWER POTATOES CROP PROSPECT

Survey Shows Farmers Devoting More Acreage to Forage Crops

Madison, Wis.—Larger acreage of alfalfa, approximately the same acreage of feed grains and lower acreage of potatoes and tobacco, are in prospect for Wisconsin during the coming season, according to a report of the agricultural situation released by Paul O. Nyhus, federal-state crop reporter. The report covers conditions in the dairy, hog, potato, tobacco and pea canning industries.

Field work has been delayed by unusual weather conditions, the summary declares. Competent farm help is hard to locate and with the present outlook of prices for dairy products, there will be considerable "getting along without hired help," it is said. The report in part follows:

DAIRY INDUSTRY
"Cheese prices since the beginning of the year have been on a lower level than a year ago. Prices dropped rapidly in early April somewhat of a seasonal change but reaching low points. Since there has been a growing confidence in the market, butter prices are lower than last year."

HOGS
"In the special hog raising area of southwestern Wisconsin, it is apparent that there is a marked reduction in the number of spring sows compared with a year ago. In the greater part of the state, however, the reduction is less marked."

POTATO INDUSTRY
"Potato prices prior to April 1, stayed at about the same level of 65 to 75 cents per hundred. At these prices and with low yields in the main potato districts of the state, farmers showed dissatisfaction with the 1923 results by indicating a reduction. The memory of three and four years of low financial returns will probably make another reduction in the acreage."

TABACCO INDUSTRY
"The 1923 crop of tobacco has moved slowly. Much of the crop was of poor quality due to frost injury and sheldburn and except for the better grades, the demand has been only moderate. There has been a strong active demand for the better binder grades. With prices being paid on a grade basis, there is a strong incentive offered to improve methods and raise the better grades. The discouraging effect of frost damage and sheldburn and slow movement may show itself in a reduced acreage, particularly in Southern Wisconsin."

"The pea canning industry has expanded rapidly in the recent years. A considerable number of new factories were built last year with little difficulty experienced in contracting new acreage. The acreage is holding its place in the older pea canning sections. It would mean that larger quality packs are being absorbed by the consuming public."

NEW ZEALAND SENDS DAIRYMEN TO U. S.

Madison—Dissatisfied with their present methods of marketing their dairy products, New Zealanders are studying the marketing methods employed in the noted dairy centers.

A committee of three members of the New Zealand Dairy Produce Board, who are touring the principal dairy producing sections and marketing points, recently spent a day here visiting the State Agricultural College, State Department of Markets, State Department of Agriculture, and Dairy and Food commission.

William Grounds, chairman of the New Zealand Dairy Produce Board; W. Claud Motion, chairman of the directors of the New Zealand Dairy Company, Ltd., which handled 22,000,000 pounds of butter last year; and J. R. Thacker, member of the New Zealand Dairy Produce Board, compose the commission now visiting Canada, America and Europe studying dairy conditions. The board, of which they are members, has a total membership of 12. Nine of the dozen are representatives of the producing organizations, elected by the cooperative themselves; one represents the middlemen exporting concerns, and two represent the government. This board has full authority to formulate regulations regarding all aspects of the export trade.

SWEET CLOVER FOLLOWS PEAS ON ELLINGTON FARM

Ellington—After he had harvested a crop of peas August 16 last season on a field, Peter Mueller seeded eight acres to sweet clover. He got a splendid stand four inches tall last fall and equally good stand this spring. Owing to the drought after the seeding was done, however, the plants did not appear as thrifty on the knolls as on the lower ground. Mr. Mueller expects to pasture twenty-six head of cattle on this field of sweet clover. He has six acres of new alfalfa seeding that stood the drought and the winter all that he expects to supply him with hay. This spring he sowed six acres more alfalfa.

1,000 ACRES OF PEAS FOR HORTONVILLE PLANT

Hortonville—The Fox Valley Canning Company has entered into contract with farmers about Hortonville and Greenville to raise 1,000 acres of peas. This acreage will tax the capacity of the plant and no further contracts will be made this season. Although bad weather has held up sowing operations, two-thirds of the acreage has been sown. The farmers are sowing late and early peas

Nordman Says Low Farm Prices Are Due To Too Great Farm Production

Purchasing Power of Consumers Must Be Increased and Production Costs Decreased If Farmers Are to Live.

Madison, Wis. "Glutted markets" are the principal cause of depressed conditions in agriculture according to Edward Nordman, state commissioner of markets, and curtailed purchasing power of the consumer and tariffs which drive away foreign buyers are the cause of oversupply of farm products rather than inefficiency or uncontrolled production and marketing, he believes.

Nordman assigns three causes for the farmers' plight and discounts marketing inefficiency, foreign competition "and other elements that are popularly attributed to the farmers' lot." Reasons for present conditions are set forth by the state marketing official as:

1. A restricted market made so by curtailed purchasing power of the masses who are in the same plight as the farmer.
2. High cost of production due to inflated land values, the multiplicity of direct and indirect taxes and to monopoly prices of many things the farmer is compelled to buy.
3. Tariff laws which act against the farmer in two ways: By curtailing the purchase power of foreign buyers and by contributing to the increase of the farmers' cost of production.

"One of the paradoxes of the present situation," Nordman says, "is an almost feverish anxiety on the part of practically all farmers and business men to increase their production in the face of the fact that surplus products are the nightmare of almost all of our producing interests."

"Taking agriculture as an example the moment that by some existing means like co-operation or greater efficiency in production some particular line of farming becomes a trifle more prosperous than farming in general, such line of farming begins to attract competition which sooner or later pulls it down to the general level of conditions. Nor would it help the farming industry as a whole if every farmer in the country joined in the effort to increase prices by those methods."

"Co-operation" for instance, constitutes a powerful means for the improvement of the agricultural situation, but it can fulfill its purpose only when it is placed in the proper economic environment based upon the right balance between the country's producing and purchasing power. "These troubles can be cured only by co-operation and greater efficiency in production go hand in hand with the introduction of measures which will prevent market glutting through an increase in the effective demand for the products of farm and factory. Any methods of improvement in the absence of such changes will only help the farmers who take advantage of them so long as their number does not comprise a very large proportion of the whole."

"It ought to be plain, however, that if all producers became efficient in production without a corresponding increase in the consumers' purchasing power, we should simply increase our unsalable surplus. Likewise, if farmers were 100 per cent co-operators, prosperity would nevertheless depend upon the purchasing power of the masses engaged in industry."

"The only effective cure for the evils that afflict agriculture is to cut down the farmers' unavoidable cost of production and to increase the purchasing power of his consumers."

HERE IS WHY FARMERS ARE HAVING TROUBLES

Center — Albert Jents in a complaint on financial hardships farmers are enduring, said that 26 years ago, he bought a grain binder for $90, which is still in use and that it can not now be replaced for less than $240, a cultipacker that before the war could be bought for $40 cannot now be bought for less than $80. A hay loader that could be had for $50 costs $120 now. For a seeder with fourteen bars and grass seedling attachment, 20 years ago, Mr. Jents paid $35 and now the same implement costs $80. "These are a few of the financial drawbacks," Mr. Jents says, that are driving farm boys from the farms on which their fathers are now failing to make good."

at the same time so that the entire crop does not ripen at the same time and crowd operations in the canning plant. A large part of the peas planted are out of the ground but the growth shows the effect of wet, cold weather.

DALE FARMERS SET BACK BY WEATHER

Farmers Far Behind in Their Seeding and Some Planting Has Rotted

Dale.—R. Schmelling is re-seeding oats and barley fields in which the grain he sowed rotted on account of unfavorable weather conditions. Mr. Schmelling is to plant ten acres of sugar beets.

Dale.—Frank Seif has four acres of winter wheat of good stand and six inches tall. He has finished small grain seeding and has planted six acres of corn. He will plant seven acres more corn. He has sowed four acres alfalfa with oats.

Wilbur Collar has sowed 12 acres of small grain and is through. He is to plant 12 acres of corn but has not started. He is putting his corn ground in shape, however. Mr. Collar depends almost entirely upon hogs and dairy cattle. Last season he marketed 60 hogs and now milking eleven high grade Guernsey cattle. He has sowed four acres of alfalfa with oats. He will soon build a silo on his premises.

Dale.—James Sexton has sowed 10 acres of barley and 17 acres of oats. He sowed 4 acres of sweet clover last year which he intends to cut for hay and put to pasture afterward. This spring he sowed 7 acres more of sweet clover. His sweet clover shows a good stand. He is intending as soon as the weather is favorable to plant 18 acres of corn.

Hortonville.—Charles Schultz says that in the 27 acres that he has been farming he has never seen a setback in seeding such as he has experienced this spring. Therefore, he has finished seeding long before this time of the year.

He has, however, finished sowing 23 acres of small grain. About four acres of this seeding in various wet spots has rotted. He has sowed 6 acres of alfalfa, planted 3 acres of corn and will plant 23 acres more. Last season he sowed 11 acres of timothy, red clover and alfalfa, mixed. The timothy and the clover were killed by the drought but the alfalfa lived. As there isn't enough of alfalfa in the field because there was not enough sown, Mr. Schultz is ploughing the field and will plant it to corn.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO FARMER BOYS AND GIRLS

Madison—Approximately 200 Wisconsin boys and girls will be rewarded for activities in agricultural clubs by attendance at the annual club short course here June 20 to 24, records received by the state college of agriculture show. The attendants will be determined by scholarships awarded by banks, schools, community clubs and other organizations. The Milwaukee association of commerce offers six scholarships and Washington, Kenosha, Racine and Waukegan offer five scholarships in each county.

FAMOUS WAUPACA SIRE EXECUTED IN CALIFORNIA

Erickson's Noted Bull Among the 72,000 Cattle Slaughtered in Epidemic

Sir Pletertje Ormsby Mercedes 37, the Holstein sire once owned by John Erickson of Waupaca and which made him famous, has fallen a victim of the foot and mouth disease in California and has been slaughtered together with hundreds of the finest pure-bred animals of the United States. The bull was sold by Mr. Erickson to Minnesota breeders and later was shipped to California. A large portion of Mr. Erickson's herd, reputed as among the finest in the country, are granddaughters of this famous animal.

To date 72,000 head of cattle have been reported as slaughtered in California. In some cases entire herds were slaughtered. A large number of hogs were also killed to check the spread of the disease.

The disease, which broke out in February, seems to be under control now, thanks to the radical measures undertaken by state and federal government officials. When the nature of the disease was recognized, the department of agriculture immediately placed the infected areas under rigid quarantine and destroyed all herds that were known to be infected or exposed to the disease.

Up to the present time 21 counties have been under quarantine regulations, but nine of them have been released to permit shipments both in and out of the areas. Steam shovels were used to dig deep trenches into which the herds were driven and executed by rifle squads working from the adjacent banks.

The government is authorized by congress to pay 50 per cent of the appraised value of the animals slaughtered. Congress immediately appropriated $1,000,000 for battling of the epidemic, but subsequently another appropriation of $1,500,000 was undertaken. The government has withdrawn more than 200 veterinarians from its staff elsewhere to cope with the problem. The disease entered the country from the orient in the vicinity of the Mare Island Navy Yard, at San Francisco and apparently made its first appearance among the garbage fed hogs near Vallejo.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS MAY HOLD ANOTHER SALE HERE

On account of a large number of out-of-state buyers, looking up young purebred Holstein bulls of serviceable age in Outagamie county this spring, The Outagamie County Holstein Breeders' Association is considering the feasibility of holding another consignment sale in Appleton immediately after the breeders have finished corn planting. As a feeder, E. O. Mueller, Appleton, secretary of the association, suggests, that any member having a surplus of purebred animals of the type described above may communicate with him as soon as possible.

ing his father's farm in Greenville has rented 60 acres of the Lawrence Pierce farm on the Hortonville road in Grand Chute for five years. He has seeded ten acres to oats with a mixture of timothy, alsike and red clover, four acres of sugar beets and fifteen acres of corn for silage and other feed. He is getting started in the dairy business and says that he favors the Brown Swiss pure-bred cow.

Prize Cow Is Money Maker For Her Owner

Hazel Green — To Pauline Ormsby De Kol Canary, a purebred Holstein, goes the honor of being the largest producing cow of the breed in Wisconsin's 165 cow testing associations, according to J. Cramer, Wisconsin college of agriculture. The animal made a net profit of $373 in less than a year, records show.

In 323 consecutive days, the cow produced in the herd of Leo Kuhl and son of Hazel Green, 22,914 pounds of milk and 839 pounds of butterfat, equal to 1,048 pounds of butter. From the sale of the butter fat, $489 was realized, it is said, leaving a substantial profit after deducting $126 for cost of feed.

The 13 purebred Holstein cows in the herd returned an average yearly profit of $136 each, or a total for the herd of over $2,800 from the sale of 7,062 pounds of butterfat containing 197,493 pounds of milk, it is stated. The average production for each cow in this herd is equal to that of four average dairy cows in the United States as is an example of what can be accomplished by cow testing association work in building a profitable dairy business, officials declare.

Will the Ready-Built House You Want Meet This Test?

Any house which omits a building material that saves a third on the fuel bill, that keeps the house comfortably warm in winter and cool in summer, can scarcely be called modern.

There is such a building material. It is called Flax-li-num.

Flax-li-num is a felt-like material made from flax fibres. It is built into the walls and roof of your house. It is a non-conductor of heat.

Too much of your heat is wasted

A house without Flax-li-num requires fifty per cent more heat than a Flax-li-num insulated house. It is cold and draughty in winter, hot and stuffy in summer. It can never be a good place to live in; and when you sell you'll have to answer the question, "How much coal?"

An un-insulated house today is a poor buy. Why should you get one of them?

Motorcycle Officers Busy on Sunday Arresting Traffic
Law Violators

Eight automobile drivers said "Good Morning, Judge," in municipal court on Monday morning. All but one were arrested for speeding, and the eighth was arrested for driving with an automobile with the muffler open, the first to be arrested on that charge under the new county ordinance.

All three motorcycle officers of the county and the motorcycle officer of Appleton were busy over the weekend. Joseph Bayer of Appleton, Saturday arrested Frank Schabo, Route 6, Appleton, for speeding at 35 miles an hour on Second-ave. The speeder paid the usual fine of $10 and costs.

Of the arrests under the county motor vehicle ordinance, three were made by Wilbur Bogan and two each by Allen Kaufman and John Frenz. A fine of $10 and costs were paid by the following: William Tauger and C. Rosey, for speeding in Greenville; George Heckel, H. Redman and Fred Reggies for speeding in Vandenberg; James Heenan, for speeding in Grand Chute.

Harry Arnold paid a fine of $1 and costs for driving over a public highway in Vandenberg with the muffler open, a practice prohibited by the county ordinance.

PETTIGREW SPEAKS AT VETS' SERVICE

H. J. Pettigrew, past commander of the Oney Johnston post of the American legion was the speaker at the Memorial services on Sunday afternoon at Darby. Because the farmers were set back with their spring work it was decided to hold the Memorial day exercises on Sunday this year.

More than 300 from the surrounding country were in attendance. A parade was formed to march to the cemetery. In his address, Mr. Pettigrew talked on the spirit and meaning of Memorial day. He urged that each citizen do his patriotic duty and made a plea for better citizenship in general.

FEWER FISH IN LAKE WHEN VETS GOT THRU

Rainbow Association Members
Have Enjoyable Time at Annual Fish Fry

Rainbow division veterans held their annual outing at Winneconne Sunday. A cottage and boats were secured in advance and 20 of the 50 veterans who participated in it left for Winneconne the night previous. The soldiers caught more fish than they could eat.

It was the second annual fishing trip of the Rainbow veterans and was entirely void of casualties with the exception of one or two cases in which men who did not understand the art of taking a fish off the hook and consequently cut their fingers on the gills.

The first contingent which arrived on Saturday pulled 49 of the finny tribes out of the waters of Lake Winneconne, and the next day the ensemble caught 60 more. The catch included white bass, rock bass, perch and pickerel. Al Bosser even caught a sturgeon. It was not a large one and weighed but 2½ pounds. Few knew what kind of a fish it was, but when it became known that it was a sturgeon, Bosser threw it back into the water, out of respect to the game laws. The largest fish was a 4-pound pickerel and was caught by Henry Gansky.

Excellent "grub" was prepared by Arthur Rock and Harry Hasingier, both of whom were company cooks of the old Company A, 150th Machine gun battalion.

Werner Gives Sermon
George F. Werner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church Sunday evening. He discussed the Young Men's Christian association and the church, after which he submitted Dr. J. R. Denyes report on the religious day school.

C. OF C. WILL BEGIN WORK AT ONCE ON CITIES CONTEST

Community Welfare Committee Lays Preliminary Plans for Its Promotion

Active work will be begun at once by the community welfare committee of the chamber of commerce on the better cities contest conducted by the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, according to a decision of the committee at a dinner in Conway hotel Monday evening.

Work of the contest will be divided into departments and various clubs and civic organizations will be requested to undertake parts of it which they are best qualified to perform. Members of the committee will go before these bodies at coming meetings and gain their endorsement of the project.

Lou Bonini, chairman of the committee, visited the meeting of Onay Johnston post of the American legion in session at the same time and spoke for cooperation of its members in the contest.

It was the belief of the committee that a great opportunity lay ahead of Appleton in undertaking this contest even though the city might not win the prize of $1,000 for having the best city in which to live. Many of the community projects now unfinished would be completed automatically in promotion of the contest and other things which the city needs probably would be obtained.

At least two members of the committee will go to Green Bay Wednesday to hear an explanation of the scoring of the contest. This will be done at one of the state sessions there of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

One of the activities which came up for discussion was a rural fire department here as a means of being of help to the farmers. Chief George P. McGowan of the fire department and Chief George T. Prim of the police department were guests of the committee at the dinner.

Lothario Nabbed By Sleuths After Stopping In Appleton

Appleton was a stopping place last week of a couple whom Milwaukee detectives were pursuing in a $500-mile chase which ended in Waupaca Saturday.

The Lothario in the case, Al. J. Ziegler, 37, a Milwaukee radio traveling salesman, was placed in the county jail at Oshkosh Sunday, while his alleged companion Mrs. Pearl L. Hanson of that city, is planning to leave Oshkosh. She recently began action for divorce from her husband, John J. Hanson, vice president of the Supreme Casualty company with headquarters in Milwaukee, in order that she would be free to marry Ziegler.

Ziegler was arrested at Waupaca after he and a fishing party composed of Milwaukee and Chicago friends had arrived there from Weyauwega and after he had eluded the two Milwaukee detectives in the pursuit from Oshkosh to Appleton, Green Bay, Marinette, back to Green Bay, thence to Milwaukee, again to Oshkosh, Winneconne and finally Weyauwega and Waupaca.

The detectives said they were but two hours behind the couple last Tuesday when they came to Appleton. It is charged that they found on a local hotel register the entry "A. J. Ziegler and Wife, Milwaukee."

THREE SMALL FIRES CAUSE LITTLE LOSS

Three small fires, all occurring within three hours Sunday morning, brought out the fire department. No mentionable damage, however, was caused. The first blaze started on the roof of Zion Lutheran church on Onondaga-st. at 6:45 in the morning. The fire was caused by sparks from the chimney and was quickly extinguished with chemicals. At 9:30 the department received a call from Carr & Hansen's billiard parlors at 931 College-ave, where a smoking furnace had filled the basement with smoke and gave the appearance of a more serious fire. Fifteen minutes later firemen were called to save an automobile that caught fire at the Otto Boller motorcycle shop at 578 Superior-st. A compound used in cleaning the motor started burning under the hood and burned off the insulation on the wiring.

The regular meeting of Appleton Advertising club, which was scheduled for Thursday, has been postponed until June 12. The speaker, Hugh G. Corbett, has been called out of the city.

MRS. SUSAN LOVEJOY
Weyauwega—Funeral services were held from the home here at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon for Mrs. Susan Lovejoy, 76, with the Rev. J. M. Kellock in charge. Interment was made in Oakwood cemetery.

Mrs. Lovejoy, nee Susan Bosworth, died at 11 o'clock Wednesday evening of last week after being ill in bed for the last four years.

The decedent was born in Moores, N. Y., in July 1847. She came to Weyauwega early in life with her uncle, Joseph Myers. She is survived by her daughter Mrs. Nellie Sims, and a brother, William Bosworth of Moores, N. Y.

The bearers were F. E. Phillips, Leo Walrath, Fred VanOrnum, Theodore Peterson, Charles Peterson, M. G. Smith, Mrs. Roy Plowman and Miss Frances Gates sang "Some Day We'll Understand," and "We'll be Remembered."

Relatives from out of town who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Sims and daughter, Antigo; Mr. and Mrs. Lark Lovejoy, Fremont; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lovejoy, Dale; Mr. and Mrs. George Frazier and family and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frazier, Payson.

America's Oldest and Finest Piano

SO BIG By Edna Ferber

Klaas did not follow this. He was busy with his own train of thought. "It don't seem hardly possible. Time she come here school teacher. I drove her out and she was like a little robin or what, set up on the seat. She says, I remember like yesterday, cab-hages was beautiful. I bet she learned different by this time."

But she hadn't. So little had Selma learned in these past eleven years that now, having loaded the wagon in the yard she surveyed it with more sparkle in her eye than High Prairie would have approved in a wide-eyed little more than a week. They had picked more than the best of the late crop—the firmest reddest radishes, the roundest juiciest beets; the carrots that tapered a good seven inches from the base to tip; kraut cabbages of the drumhead variety that were flawless green balls; firm juicy spears of cucumber; cauliflower of her own planting; Pervus had opposed it that looked like a bride's bouquet. Selma stepped back and regarded this riot of crimson and green, of white and gold and purple.

"Aren't they beautiful! Dirk aren't they beautiful?" Dirk, capering in his excitement at the prospect of the trip before him, shook his head impatiently. "What? I don't see anything beautiful. What's beautiful?"

Selma flung out her arms. "The whole wagon load. The cabbages. 'I don't want you mean,' said Dirk. 'Let's go. Mother. Aren't we going now? You said as soon as the load was on.'"

"Oh, Sobig, you're just like your—"

She stopped. "Like my what?" "We'll go now, son. There's cold meat for your supper. And, and potatoes all sliced for frying and half an apple pie left from noon. Wash your dishes—don't leave them cluttering around the kitchen. You ought to get in the rest of the squash and pumpkins by evening. Maybe I can sell the lot instead of taking them in by the load. I'll see a commission man. Take less, if I have to."

She had dressed the boy in his home-made suit cut down from one of his father's. He wore a wide-brimmed straw hat which he hated. Selma had made him an overcoat of stout bean-sacking and this she tucked under the wagon seat, together with an old black fascinator, for though the September afternoon was white-hot she knew that the evenings were likely to be chilly, once the sun, a great crimson Chinese balloon, had burned itself out in a blaze of flame across the prairie horizon. Sell's black-stuff dress, mounted the wagon on a giggle, took up the reins, looked down at the boy seated beside her, clucked to the horse. Jan Sien gave vent to a final outraged bellow.

"Never in my life did I hear of such a thing!" Selma turned the horses' heads toward the city. "You'd be surprised, Jan, to know of all the things you're going to hear of some day that you've never heard of before." Still, when twenty years had passed and the Ford, the phonograph, the radio, and the rural mail delivery had dumped the word at Jan's pleading feet he liked to tell of that momentous day when Selma DeJong had driven off to market like a man with a wagon load of hand-scrubbed garden truck and the boy Dirk perched beside her on the seat.

If then, you had been travelling the Halted road, you would have seen a decrepit wagon, vegetable-laden, driven by a too-thin woman, sallow, bright-eyed, in a shapeless black dress, a battered black felt hat that looked like a man's old "fedora" and probably was. Her hair was unbecomingly strained away from the face with its high cheek bones, so that unless you were really observant and you failed to notice the exquisite little nose or the really fine eyes so unnaturally large now in the anxious face. On the seat beside her you would have seen a farm boy of nine or thereabouts—a brown freckle-faced lad in a comically home-made suit of clothes and a straw hat with a broken and flopping brim which he was forever jerking off only to have it set firmly on again by the woman who seemed to fear the effects of the hot afternoon sun on his close-cropped head. But in the brief intervals when the hat was off you must have noted how the boy's eyes were shining.

At their feet was the dog Pom, a mongrel whose tail bore no relation to his head, whose ill-assorted legs appeared wholly at variance with his sturdy barrel of a body. He dozed now, for it had been his duty to watch the wagon load at night, while Pervus slept.

A shabby enough little outfit, but magnificent, too: Here was Selma DeJong driving up the Halted road toward the city instead of sitting, black-robed, in the farm parlour while High Prairie came to console. In Selma, as they jogged along the hot dusty way, there welled up a feeling very like elation. Conscious of this, the New England strain in her took her to task. "Selma Peake, aren't you ashamed of yourself! You're a wicked woman! Feeling almost gay when you ought to be sad. . . . Poor Pervus. . . . the farm. . . . Dirk. . . . and you can feel almost gay! You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

But she wasn't, and knew it. For even as she thought this little wave of elation came flooding over her again. More than ten years ago she had driven with Klaas Pool up that same road for the first time, and in spite of the recent tragedy of her father's death, her youth, her loneliness, the terrifying thought of the new home to which she was going, a stranger among strangers, she had been conscious of a warm little thrill of elation of excitement. . . . of adventure! That was it, "The whole thing's just a grand adventure," her father, Elmeon Peake, had said. And now the sensations of that day were repeating themselves. Now, as then, she was doing what was considered a revolutionary and daring thing; a thing that High Prairie regarded with horror. And now, as then, she took stock. Youth was gone, but she had health, courage; a boy of nine; twenty-five acres of worn-out farm land; dwelling and out-houses in a bad state of repair; and a gay adventurous spirit that was never to die, though it led her into curious places and she often found, at the end only a tractless waste from which she had to retrace her steps painfully. But always, to her red and green cabbages were to be jade and burgundy, chrysoprase and porphyry. Life has no weapons against a woman like that.

And the winered cashmere. She laughed aloud. "What are you laughing at, Mom?" That sobered her. "Oh, nothing. Sobig, I didn't know I was laughing. I was just thinking about a red dress I had when I first came to High Prairie's girl. I've got it yet."

"What's that to laugh at?" He was following a yellow-hammer with his eyes. "Nothing. Mother said it was nothing."

"What I'd brought my sling-shot." The yellow-hammer was perched on the fence by the roadside not ten feet away.

"Sobig, you promised me you wouldn't throw at any more birds, ever."

"Oh, I wouldn't hit it. I would just like to aim at it."

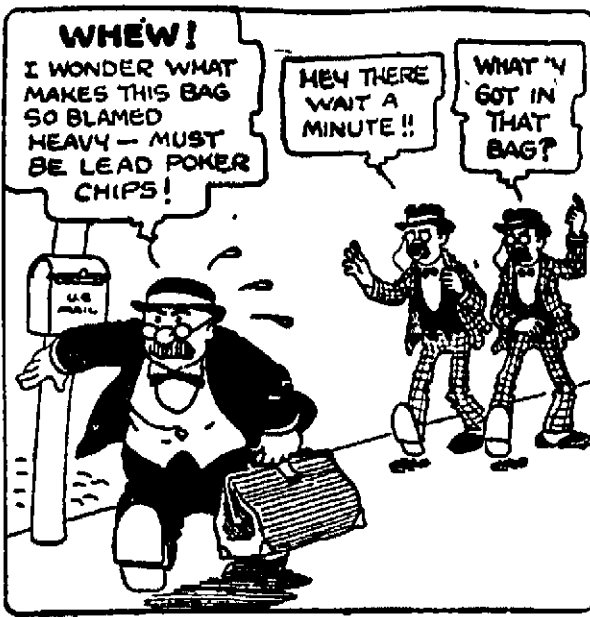

Down the hot dusty country road. She was serious enough now. The cost of the funeral to be paid. The doctor's bill Jan's wage. All the expenses, large and small, of the poor farm holding. Nothing to laugh at, certainly. The boy was wiser than she.

"There's Mrs. Pool on her porch. Mom. Rocking."

PAPERMAKERS PLAY SECOND HOME GAME SUNDAY

Indians Promise Hard Battle For Appleton After Beating Baymen

Record Attendance Is Expected In View of Exciting Twelfth-Inning Victory Over Pails at Menasha.

Oshkosh Sunday afternoon will invade this city for a contest with the Papermakers at Brandt park. "Bull" Durham's tribe has had considerable hard luck this season, but came back Sunday afternoon and defeated Green Bay. As the Baymen have scored a victory over Appleton, it looks as though the Papermakers would have to be on their toes Sunday in order to keep in the first division of the league.

Sunday's contest will be the second homegame of the season. Fond du Lac played here in the first one, and put up a mediocre exhibition before a very small crowd of fans. That was chiefly due to cold weather and lack of practice, however, and unless the weatherman opens the floodgates once more, a big turnout is expected Sunday.

INTEREST IS BOOMING
After the Papermakers' 12-inning victory over the Pails Sunday afternoon at Menasha, interest in their success is bound to boom unless the national pastime has lost its drawing power entirely in this city. Smith's aggregation had an eight run lead to overcome after the second inning with the strongest team in the circuit as rivals. They breezed along in fine shape and tied the score before the usual nine innings were over. However, it required three more stanzas of effort to beat the Pails.

Every man on the Papermakers' lineup hit Melzer frequently, but one of them, Gosh, failed to connect safely. His brilliant work in the field, notably spearing Leopold's hefty drive off the fence in the ninth, made up for his lack of hits. Babine's, a recent and valuable addition, started the winning rallies and tied eleven chances without a waver. The Pails showed the results of daily practice which the Papermakers lack, but as the season progresses the Appleton club will hit its regular stride. If the players can keep up the pace they set Sunday, they cannot fail to win the full support of their fans, and the attendance should swell mightily.

CARP PLANS BATTLE WITH GENE TUNNEY

French "Ring Idol" Leaves for New York to Make Final Arrangements

Chicago — Georges Carpentier, French lightweight champion, who lost Tommy Gibson to Paul at Michigan City, Ind. Saturday plans to leave Tuesday for New York where negotiations will be continued with Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, American lightweight titleholder, for a bout at an early date. The French fighter, Francois Desamps, his manager, and Gus Wilson, his trainer, will visit at the home of Jack Curley, Carpentier's American manager at Green Neck, L. I., while negotiations proceed. Legal proceedings, threatened by Gibson when Carpentier agreed to the bout with Tunney were not begun after the Frenchman agreed to meet Tunney after the Michigan City bout.

NATIONALS GET MATTHEWS FOR FISHER AND SHEKELS

Washington, D. C.—W. C. "Wild" Matthews, star outfielder of the Milwaukee American association club, has been obtained by the Washington American team in exchange for outfielder George Fisher and a cash consideration. Matthews, who was with the Philadelphia Athletics last season, was expected by club officials here to report to the local club Tuesday at Detroit.

Legion Honors Prize Athlete Of High School

Arnold Hillman, recently graduated alumnus of Appleton high school, was the guest of honor at the regular meeting of the Ony Johnston post of the American Legion Monday night. Hillman was the recipient of the Legion medal awarded for highest athletic accomplishment in athletic endeavor at the school last season and was introduced to the audience by those who are backing the annual award in an effort to place athletics on a higher plane. The committee which picks the winner is composed of a Legion member, a member of the faculty of the school and a third one chosen by the two others. The choice of Hillman was unanimous, although the committee had considerable difficulty in arriving at its conclusion. The name of the recipient is kept secret until he is called upon to receive the gold medal, and Hillman was greatly surprised, he said, when his name was called as winner.

Buenos Aires—Luis Firpo is withholding his signature from articles of agreement to fight Harry Wills pending settlement of the date of the fight.

Pails Head State Loop

Neesh-Menasha has an undoubted claim to first place in the Wisconsin State Baseball league with Appleton and Sheboygan tied for second. In Monday's issue of the Post-Crescent it was erroneously stated that the Pails, Papermakers and Chicks were in a triple tie for first. The Twin City club has played five games, one of which it lost, whereas Sheboygan and Appleton each have won three out of four contests. The Pails are idle Sunday, and if Appleton defeats Oshkosh here on that day, the Papermakers will share the upper berth.

TENDLER MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN BOUT WITH CHAMP

Micky Walker Retains Welterweight Crown But Was Badly Jarred

Philadelphia, Pa.—The welterweight pugilistic crown still adorns the head of Micky Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., but it received a powerful jarring at the hands of Lew Tandler, Philadelphia southpaw, in a ten-round match at the National league park Monday night. The lanky portlander fought a game bout against the two rated champion. The newspapermen at the ringside gave the champion three rounds, Tandler two rounds and called five rounds even. Tandler's aggressiveness, his tantalizing left hand coupled with a close guard and an ability to box Walker off when the champion started his rushes, made the Philadelphia look good against the title holder. On the other hand, Walker lacked his usual aggressiveness and punching power that has characterized his fighting thus far as king of the 147-pound maus.

BLACK GOLD WINS THREE DERBIES IN ONE SEASON

Black Gold has won three derbies this season, the Louisiana, the Kentucky and the Ohio. Now if he can only win a straw hat he'll be right in style.

Troy, N. Y.—Pete Zirc, Pittsburgh, and Johnny Mendo, Philadelphia, fought a five-round draw.

CONLEY WILL MEET TOUGH OPPONENT IN ST. PAUL BATTLER

Thursday Match in Oshkosh Expected to Be Full of Thrills

Oshkosh—When Roy Conley, the "fighting parson" of Oshkosh, meets Buddy McDonald of St. Paul Thursday night, June 6, at Armory B, he is entering the ring with one of the leading welterweights of the country. McDonald is considered as a real contender for the welterweight championship and his manager, Murray McLean of St. Paul, is right on the heels of Mickey Walker, the present title holder, for a match to a decision.

Buddy McDonald during his ring career has met and defeated Joey "Young" O'Hara, Jack Josephs, Dago Joe Gans, Eddie "Kid" Billings, Battling Krause, Al Van Ryan and other boys in their class. With a record such as this the American Legion Athletic committee feel they are bringing to Oshkosh a man who will put up a great fight against the local pride.

Conley and McDonald have met on two occasions previously and although some newspapers gave Buddy a slight shade, he does not claim to have beaten Conley, because he won by such a narrow margin. The "fighting parson" is of the opinion that he can beat Buddy and has made the statement that he would rather "hand him a beating" before an Oshkosh audience than anywhere else. Conley can always be depended upon for a good fight and the Oshkosh fans will see just as much action in this match as when Roy met Bud Logan about a month ago.

The Young White vs. A. Russell match is really a wind-up affair. Lester White needs no introduction to the fight fans of Oshkosh. He has earned the reputation of being one of the cleanest boxers in the game. His return to boxing will be watched with great interest by his many admirers in Oshkosh. Al Russell, his opponent from Milwaukee, is an experienced man and White succeeds in administering a beating to Russell there will be no doubt in anyone's mind that White has successfully "come back."

KIMBERLY TEAM HITS OSHKOSH MACS, 4 to 3

Oshkosh—In one of the fastest games this season at Kimberly Saturday the Oshkosh McKillen baseball club went down to defeat to the Kimberly-Clark aggregation by the close score of 4 to 3. Oshkosh lost the game on some bad breaks. "Hank" Getzen pitched a fine game for Oshkosh, allowing but six hits and striking out seven men. He hurled gilt edged ball in the pinches. Kimberly saved the day several times by getting the breaks, when it looked as if the "Macs" would tally a few runs. Menasha Rivermen, who were to play the McKillen team Sunday, called the game off. Appleton Fox River Valley Paper company team plays the "Macs" here next Sunday.

ROD AND REEL

M. J. V. FOSE

LANDING THE FIRST ONE
If one has practiced diligently at "tossing the bait" in the back yard he undoubtedly is "just itching" to get on some stream to try his luck. The first attempt at casting from a boat seat will seem somewhat awkward to the beginner, in view of the fact that practice has been taken while in a standing posture, however, don't stand in a boat but stick to the seat as casting will be easier for you after a half hour or so and will save many a wetting.

The first strike of a "game fish" will come somewhat as a thriller and undoubtedly cause the beginner to get "buck fever" and forget all he has learned about handling the rod and reel when the old "sockdolager" is tugging at the other end; but try and keep cool for many large ones are lost in this manner.

When the unexpected strike occurs it will be in the shape of a little "rug tug" at the other end of the line and when this reaches one, it means that the bait caster should give a little twitch of the rod, holding the reel spool securely to drive the point of the hook into the fish's lips. Do not be too hard on the victim or you may pull the bait away. After hooking your quarry he will start for parts unknown and that is the time to keep a "tight line" on him. But do not clamp down the thumb on the spool as a little tension is all that is necessary, as he will not go far, and when he decides to return suddenly, that is the time to take up the slack line as Mr. Fish might decide to make a leap and "throw" the bait "skittin" to get himself free.

The spring of a good rod serves well in landing a fish, and is really a necessity in tossing the bait. A stiff rod will naturally tire one arm more than the flexible one because a little twitch of the wrist is all that is necessary if one has a rod with elasticity.

New Orleans, La.—Tommy Freeman, Hot Springs, Ark., won a decision over Pinkie Mitchell of Milwaukee in 16 rounds, but did not gain the junior welterweight title because he failed to make the required weight.

Perfect 36 Is Champ

NEVADA TALHELM

Lawrence, Kas.—A perfect 36, with a perfect 100 added, are the records attached to the name of Nevada Talhelm, University of Kansas co-ed rifle team captain-elect.

She is the only girl of the Kansas co-ed team to shoot a perfect score in competition. Then bullseyes are to her credit at 50 feet in a match shoot against the University of Missouri team.

Miss Talhelm got her habit of shooting straight by hunting squirrels in the tall trees on her father's farm near Altamont, Kas. She has the "cool gray eye," said to be essential to a good marksman, or man, for that matter.

She is a typical example of the modern girl, bobbled hair and everything—including the perfect thirty-six.

Catcher Must Outguess Rival Batsmen, Schalk

By RAY SCHALK

Prouder Catcher, White Sox
Styles in catching shift with almost as great rapidity as they do in wearing apparel.

Methods that produced results 15 years back, with pitchers' battles all the vogue, wouldn't be very practical in these days of the lively ball and home-run slugger.

Don't alibi, would be the very first suggestion I would offer any catcher who aspires to become a big leaguer. Accept the breaks of the game as they come.

When you feel that you are right, fight for your point. When you have erred do not seek to place the blame on a teammate or the umpire by offering an alibi that you hope will cover up your mistake.

Every big league catcher makes mistakes. No one is infallible. The thing to do is have the courage of your convictions, call for the style pitch that you believe will be most effective and then stand or fall on your judgment.

WATCH CAREFULLY
A catcher should always have a knowledge of the strength and weakness of the opposing players. In a league organization this is made possible by careful study of each batter.

Once a catcher gains a knowledge of the opposing batters, it is up to him to use such information to the best possible advantage.

When I broke into the American League, base running was one of the most important features of play. Breaking up of the steal of second was a play that always loomed up in front of the catcher when a batsman reached first base.

Playing for a run was then the system, a base hit invariably scored the runner from second. A strong accurate arm was most essential. I never had a strong arm but usually was very accurate. I tried to make up for my lack of stuff on the ball by getting it away quickly, also by calling for a pitchout when I believed a runner was going.

Things have changed now. A catcher need no longer worry about the base stealer. His big job is trying to keep the batter from hitting the ball safe, and calling the play in advance when the hit and run is about to be pulled.

KEEP SIGNALS FROM RIVALS
Protect your signals. Never let the opposition get wise to your method of signaling to the pitcher.

Keep in mind your infield and outfield and see they are playing properly for the style ball that is to be pitched. Often the moving of a few feet on the part of an outfielder makes a big difference in the play.

A great many teams play the hit and run on the first ball pitched. Some put it on when the second ball is delivered. Knowledge of such facts help. Otherwise the catcher must dope out the situation and play his hunch.

Two features of play overlooked by most catchers is the handling of bunts in front of the plate and the catching of foul flies. I practice constantly on both.

WASHINGTON CLUB HAS TROUBLE WITH STAFF OF PITCHERS

Youthful National Rookies Show Promise But Fail to Win Contests

Youth must be served is an old and usually truthful adage in the world of sport.

There are exceptions, however, to every rule.

This holds good for the pitching staff of the Washington club of the American League for this year.

Manager Stanley Harris of the Nationals is rebuilding his ball club. Naturally the pitching staff is receiving much consideration. He feels that he has a number of promising twirling recruits.

MARBERRY LOOKS GOOD

Only recently President Clarke Griffith was reported to have expressed the opinion that in Fred Marberry he had a second Walter Johnson. In a number of games the big southerner has showed a lot of stuff but he has had his troubles winning.

Going to the relief of other pitchers he has been of great value, but it has been a difficult matter for him to make much of a showing in the games won column. Twice he has rescued the great Walter Johnson and saved the day.

Paul Zahniser is another youngster with plenty of stuff. He figured to be a big winner for the Nationals, but wildness has been his great handicap. A rookie with a Carl Mays delivery, looks like a good bet. He seems to lack only experience.

While the youthful Washington pitchers show great promise they have had their troubles winning ball games. Youth isn't exactly being served from a pitching standpoint, as far as Washington is concerned.

GRIFF'S VETERAN'S STAR

As a matter of fact the Washington players refer to their pitching strength as the 110-year-old pitching staff.

The players have reference to Walter Johnson, George Mogridge and Joe Mathias. This trio comprises Washington's 110-year-old pitching staff, as the players call it, although the actual age of the three is only 106.

The great Walter Johnson is 37. The veteran George Mogridge confesses to 35, while Joe Mathias admits to 34, making him the oldest rookie to ever make good in the big show.

Youth usually holds sway in sport, but with the Washington club age dominates the pitching staff. Johnson, Mogridge and Mathias have been the consistent winners for the kid manager, Stanley Harris.

QUESTIONS

1. If a fielder has the ball in his possession ready to touch a base runner and, after so doing, the ball is deliberately knocked out of his hands by the runner, what is the proper decision?—D. F.
2. If a runner on first, believing that a fly ball is not going to be caught, starts to advance, and has nearly reached third base when the fielder makes the catch, does the throwing of the ball to second base before he can get back there double him up? M. P.
3. If, after a batted ball goes through an infielder, a base runner, in the opinion of the umpire, deliberately kicks such a hit ball, what is the proper ruling?—A. A.

ANSWERS

1. The runner should be called out for such an act.
2. In order to properly make the play, the runner should either be touched with the ball, or it should be thrown to the base he occupied when the ball was hit, and in this instance it was the first.
3. The base runner should be called out for interference.

Dempsey Will Box 3 Men On Benefit Card

Los Angeles, Calif.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, will meet three opponents in the feature bouts of an all round star benefit boxing program here Tuesday night. The three who face the champion in the scheduled two round events are Recco Stragmalia, who for a time was with the Dempsey camp before the Schibler-Mont, fight, Fred Sullivan of San Francisco and Pat Lester, 230 pounder of Arizona. James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight title holder, and Lieutenant Jack Kennedy of the U. S. S. Mississippi will act as referees in the three Dempsey fights. Bermondsey Billy Wells, welterweight titleholder of England, is matched with Jimmy Duffy of Oakland, Calif., claimant to the Pacific coast welterweight title, for the main four-round bout.

New York—Johnny Dundee, veteran Italian, gained a judges decision over Luis Vincenzini, Chilian lightweight after 12 closely fought rounds.

M'Graw Watches With Leg In Plaster Cast As Giants Beat Braves

Four Eastern Clubs of American Invade West and Two Western National Teams Play in East.

Four eastern clubs of the American league play in the west Tuesday and two western teams of the National invade the east in the opening games of the second big migration of the baseball season.

Major interest attaches to the American with Detroit as the strategic point in a triple contest with the New York and Boston clubs for the leadership. The Tigers, tied with the Red Sox, one half game back of the Yankees, enter into Washington and Philadelphia before clashing with the world's champions and Boston.

The path of Huggins and his team, with Babe Ruth carrying more than his usual appeal because of his attack on his 1921 homerun record and his designation as the most valuable man in the American circuit, lies in order, through Chicago, St. Louis and Cleveland.

The Red Sox go from St. Louis to Chicago and through Cleveland to Detroit. The schedule calls for all eastern clubs to meet each western rival in four games before June 19.

The situation in the National league, where the Giants enjoy a two-game lead, and other clubs, follow at distances graded mostly to one game rests principally upon the success with which western clubs renew their attack upon McGraw's team which appears to be almost invincible in contests with teams of its own section.

McGRAW WATCHES GAME

Under the eye of John McGraw, who, with his injured leg resting in a cast, watched his team play for the first time since the series at Pittsburgh, the Giants displayed a reversal of form Monday and defeated Boston, 6 to 1, in a setting of scintillating fielding and cluster-base hits. Ryan held the Braves to one hit in six innings but weakened badly in the last three frames and was relieved by Jonnard. Pittsburgh advanced to within a game of the fading Reds and the first division by trouncing the Cards, 6 to 2. Carey hit a homerun. The Pirates will begin their eastern swing at Brooklyn Wednesday confident that they are generally regarded as ripe for a sprint. Washington defeated the Athletics, 8 to 3, as Walter Johnson held Mack's team to seven hits. No games were scheduled in either league.

Approximately 10,000 Louisville baseball fans saw Babe Ruth deliver his specialty when he cracked out a four bagger in the ninth inning in the exhibition game between the Yankees and the American association club. The blow was said to have been a park record for distance. No one was on base at the time. The Yankees were defeated, 6 to 7.

Lance Richbourg, former Southern association player who was with the Senators, has been obtained by the Yankees via the waiver route.

Bill Bartlett, former outfielder who is playing shortstop for the White Sox, appears to have given the club a much needed punch. Bartlett, in addition to being a great fielder is hitting in great form.
